

In a world of false claims, limited warranties, and unenforceable guarantees, we thought you might be interested in "just the facts" regarding outdoor skin protection.

Facts:

OSHA requires employees be trained to recognize and avoid all workplace hazards, including those that occur outside, such as:

Sunburn: Sunscreen must be used in situations where it is the only effective means of sun protection.

Dermatitis: Prevention and education about poisonous plants including Poison Ivy, Poison Oak and Poison Sumac.

Insect-Born Diseases: Including West Nile virus, Lyme disease and others.

CoreTex Products, Inc., has developed effective products that allow employers to comply with these demands and packaging that makes compliance affordable.

Sunburn: SunX SPF 30+ Sunscreen: Proven and documented in Independent Laboratory Testing to be:

- Very water/sweat resistant
- Rated SPF 30+
- Passed phototoxicity (PHO) tests for skin irritation
- Passed Lineman's Glove Testing (Type 1 Class 2 ANSI/ASTM-D120)

Note: The clinical study was completed 10/02/02 by Stephens & Associates, Inc., a global research and testing organization. Copies of test results available upon request.

Dermatitis: IvyX Pre-Contact Barrier Gel and IvyX Post Contact Cleanser: An effective product line for limiting contact allergens.

Pre-Contact Gel dries almost instantly on skin, no more 15 min. delays as with other products.

Insect-Born Diseases: BugX Insect Repellent Towelette w/ 55% DEET:

Facts: The following information is from the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC)

Note: Copies of published (10/04/02) documents available upon request.

DEET is the most effective and best-studied insect repellent available.

DEET in higher percentages does not mean your protection is better, just that it will last longer.

DEET concentrations higher than 50% do not increase the length of protection.

DEET should not be applied directly to the face by using an aerosol or pump sprayer.

DEET is proven very safe when used as directed.
